

Music Education Seminar Series

April 5, 2016

Geir Johansen

(Self-) Critical Music Education – How
Should We Relate to the “New Wave”

MusEd Education Seminar - 6:30 p.m.

Email bament@uwo.ca for location information

Geir Johansen is professor of music education and music Didaktik at the Norwegian Academy of Music in Oslo, Norway. Among his research interests are curriculum implementation, talent education, music teacher education, and educational quality in higher music education along with conservatoires in society, all within the overall perspective of the sociology of music education. He has published articles in international journals as well as chapters in books and anthologies, and presented papers at various international conferences. He holds a bachelor, master and Ph. D. in music education.

To learn more visit:

www.music.uwo.ca

Western
Music

Don Wright Faculty of Music