

MUSICAL FUTURES July 4 - 15, 2016 CERTIFICATION WORKSHOP

For the first time this summer, Western offers a certified two-week course that will develop and extend the skills of music educators working in all contexts. This engaging, hands-on workshop will provide tools to create sustainable, student-centred, 21st century music learning experiences using informal learning and non-formal teaching.

Participants can expect to:

- Discover and explore the principles and practices of Musical Futures
- Engage in critical reflection on the application of this approach
- Explore curricular connections of the approach in traditional and alternative music settings (or contexts)
- Develop informal music learning and workshopping skills in small groups and large ensembles
- Consider uses of technology such as jam hubs, smart phones, tablets, PCs, iPods

Presenters: Ruth Wright, Music Education, Don Wright Faculty of Music, & Jennifer Lang, Music Education, University of Saskatchewan.

This course is also available for graduate credit
