What is a research proposal?

A clear and comprehensive statement of a research question that you intend to study in order to find out, demonstrate, document, or prove something worth knowing.

Formulating a research question

- The research question should be clear, focused, and interesting
- The scope of the project should be realistic
- The researcher should have the training, time, and resources needed to answer the question

Some important considerations

- Why is the research needed?
- What is known about the topic?
- Who are the experts?
- How will the research be conducted?
- Is the research ethical?

Elements of a research proposal

- Introduction → state the research question
- Lit review → situate your research
- Rationale → why is the research needed?
- Methodology → how will you do the research?
- Organization → chapter or section summaries

Other things to include

- Title page → use our template
- Bibliography → primary & secondary sources
- Ethics approval statement if you will be working with human subjects
